Hodges Uses Business Methods.

There is no longer any question but that Governor Hodges' administration is the best the state has atory, and the State Penitentiary, the Boy's Industrial School and the Girl's Industrial School. One of the principal achievements of the Hodges' administration has been the business methods which he has placed in all of these institutions. At the time the State Accountant audited the books of the different institutions in the state and his report shows that very little effort was made to keep complete records of the transactions made by the officers of these institutions.

From the report regarding the Hutchinson Reformatory we quote this statement: "We are unable to find sufficient data at the institution to enable us to verify the moneys collected and remitted to the State Treasurer. All we were able to do was to verify the remittance to the State Treasurer, as revealed by the cancelled checks of the superintendent with the transcripts of fees taken from the Auditor's records. This is a most deplorable condition and should be corrected at once."

From the report regarding the Kansas State Soldiers' Home at Fort Dodge, Kansas: "It is shown that as a result of placing this institution under the management of the Board of Control, a great many improvements are being made in the handling of accounts, as well as other matters connected with the home." From the accountant's report on the Mother Bickerdike Home at Ellsworth, Kansas, we quote the following:

"We are unable to find the receipts for the money received and the amount shown in this statement is the amount remitted to the State Treasurer and has not been verified by the entries at the Home for the reason stated above. The handling of the records of this institution for the period under review is without system, as the records and accounts were stored away in closets, bureau drawers and writing desks, haphazard, without regard to date or any classification whatever."
